

Small Group Instructor Training Course (SGITC)

This five-day course is a The Army Training System (TATS) Course designed to support Total Army School System (TASS) total force training mission. The Small Group Instructor Training Course provides a standardized training support package for training small group instruction (SGI). The course is designed to teach instructors how to prepare and facilitate small group instruction through conventional classroom settings or via video teletraining networks (TNET).

The SGITC is a 40-hour training program conducted using the concept of learning by doing. The course is designed to teach military instructors how to facilitate a small group to achieve a training objective. The course presents definitions, terminology, and instructional methods used in small group instruction and provide insight into how adults learn and develop as individuals and group members with a common goal. The course presents exercises and conferences designed to have students experience, first hand, how groups react and interact in a variety of situations and SGI methodologies.

Course prerequisites: A certification of completion from the Battle Focused Instructor Training Course (BFITC), Total Army Instructor Training Course (TAITC), Instructor Training Course (ITC), or the Army Basic Instructor Course (ABIC), and assignment or pending assignment as a small group leader/instructor. Military must meet height and weight standards IAW AR 600-9. Military must pass most recent APFT.
